

Black Boy

Headington

Public areas

Lounge / Bar and restaurant /
Private dining area / Lovely garden / 5x Letting rooms

About this opportunity

The Black Boy is a beautiful place to dine, drink and stay. It is situated in Old Headington, a lovely little area of Oxford, with the look and feel of a village, yet only a stone's throw away from a vibrant high street and the iconic dreaming spires of the city centre.

On entry you are greeted by a lovely relaxing lounge area before you reach the bright and spacious bar and restaurant. From here you are lead through to another dining area which is a great space to host private dining and intimate events. Outside is a lovely garden perfect for those sunny afternoons sipping drinks and grazing on good food.

The five bedrooms have undergone huge investment and have been completed to a very high standard, providing a stylish, cosy and comfortable place to stay.

This opportunity would be great for someone with the vision and flair to create an exceptional dining experience and an intimate venue to host private dining, gatherings, cocktail parties and events.

The community

Headington is a vibrant suburb of Oxford only two miles from the city centre.

It has excellent local amenities including doctors, dentists, shops, supermarkets and a variety of restaurants, cafés and pubs.

The John Radcliffe, Churchill and Warneford Hospitals are all close by.

There is a great range of schools nearby, including Magdalen College School, Headington School and Rye St Antony.

Headington has great motorway links and London is under 45 miles away. Train stations can be found just 10-15 minutes away at Oxford Islip station or Oxford Parkway, so getting around couldn't be easier.
